Mr. Evans continues doing his job to the best of his ability.

Tough football practice is even tougher in the summer.

Sweetest! Here at last—hard-hitting Tony Blair.

Summer band practice to prepare for our first show.

Summer

Summer soaking up the warm sun on the sandy beach . . . walking, running down a field of golden flowers . . .

So we spent the glorious days of summer. But there were times when duty called us from these times of frolic and fun. Jockeys, flag corps, swimming, basketball players, football players, tracksters, cheerleaders and band members spent many long, treacherous hours merely to obtain a closer view of perfection. Practice makes perfect and perfection gives pride. Pride in Big Red.

Vacations to the North and South. A visit to Grandma's or just camped alone . . . we explored. The 4-H's and Scouts went to camp to learn more of the world around them. And several students attended Boys and Girls State. A large number of students sacrificed many peaceful hours of sleep and comfort for a chance to broaden their minds in summer classes. Some of our talented scholars even ventured to a more advanced course at King College and Governor's School. The summer not only gave us a source of recreation but a broadened and strengthened mind and skills, preparing us for the New Year.

Buddy Farris visited Pennsylvania for the Jr. Olympics.

Students, CHRISTIE Davis and Ed Orr went to the Governor's School for the gifted.

4-H members were active in many projects this summer.

And then it happened...

First Day: There was nothing really unique about the start of the school year. The Freshmen still became lost, no matter how many signs had been posted. The Sophomores and Juniors felt somewhat braver and decidedly more sure of themselves, and of course the Seniors had to assert some of their new-found authority. But none of this was earth shattering. We had all been through it before and even though nerves were a little shaky, hardly anything was truly different.

Yet there was something.

The same things were said in the first assembly, and even the introduction of new teachers failed to make the day worthy of national acclaim.

Yet there was something.

And as the day wore on this something materialized into the realization that this was our year, a different kind of year. One that would totally and undeniably reflect us. We knew we would mold the next nine months to suit ourselves and would make them as unique as two pieces in a puzzle. As different as 1,100 individuals thrown together for once in a lifetime, could make them.

As the day wore on, and the hazy stupor of summer was cast aside, the smiles that grew on the sometimes exasperated faces said it all.

Spirit Week

Pie Smash? Odd as it may seem, it proved to be an excellent way to raise the spirit at M.S.H.S. Mixed together with bold displays of colorful posters and motivating signs, it promoted class participation and charged students up with eager enthusiasm and excitement. Home-rooms displayed banners throughout the halls; hanging streamers around lights, desks, and boards. Then satisfaction was tasted by all who contributed as the Big Red Machine rolled over the Chilhowie Warriors 21-0.

Jeff Beaver and Coach Crowder agree that this isn't the way to start the new season.

Football on an Indian Summer night is great for the fans, but John David Crowley thinks it's a little warm.

Sunshine, Lollipops & Rainbows

Mirrors, make-up, "Who has the baseline?" This was the MSHS Beauty Pageant.

Somewhere backstage on the night of September 22, one could hear the slightly hysterical voice of Mrs. Sullivan, as she tried to quiet down forty-five very nervous girls.

"We have to learn this song. Come on girls, just one more time."

Most of those girls learned the song but when the curtain prematurely closed, many sighed with relief because they could never remember that last line.

It was a crazy night, especially since the numbered lollipops arrived only three minutes before curtain time.

The occasion was finally come and gone, and everyone who had beheld the fairy princesses trip lightly across a stage of rainbows and lollipops knew that for several hours blue jeans and flannel shirts went homeless.

Five finalists; Debbie Hayes, Cheryl Sale, Cathy Umbarger, Shelly Sharpe, Ivy Medley.

Gary Perdue and Lydia Swaha put final touches on the back-drop of "Sunshine, Lollipops and Rainbows."

Jay McDonald and Pat Hash review their duties for the big night.

Smile.

They came! They came in hoards, packs, droves, occasionally in homerooms, but rarely in any semblance of order. They still arrived however and were recorded and again resumed their former state. Then ill-fitting blouses, crooked ties, and unmanageable hair did not slow this process as each person was consumed by the glowing lights for a brief second of eternity.

And they still came, all the classes, alike, with down payments, or lost receipts, or maybe a name that no one could hope to spell correctly. So, as the complaining about frills on a blouse, or the color of a shirt, or the feel of a coat floats from the front of the school, and teachers complain about "time lost from class," you just know pictures are being made.

... smile

... pretty Frank!

... boys - guess what is going to wear ...

College Career Night

We come, the seniors and the juniors alike to probe into our own futures. We come to look ahead as to what we will be doing after graduation and to find what college or occupation suits our personal desires. But mostly we come to ask questions, to 'feel' places and people out, and to explore a small part of what new or exciting experiences lie out there in THE WORLD!"

College Career night is not the only special thing that takes place. as a whole week, American Education Week, is set aside so teachers, students, and people from all parts of education, can be rewarded for outstanding achievement, can discuss ways to improve ways of getting involved!

Students from almost every class and club in the school participated in the Variety Show ranging from the can-can to Squattie Botties, to cereal bowls, to the Freak Brothers. Then the laughter ceased as the seniors concluded the show with the Alma Mater.

But this was not near the end of Homecoming as students tromped down to the lower parking lot where spirit flamed around a blazing bonfire. Everyone seemed to burn with the spirit while kicking and chanting around the fire to the music of the Pep Band.

Then came the ballgame and another sweet victory as the Hurricanes defeated the Tazewell Bulldogs 28-8. Ivy Medley also tasted victory of another flavor as she was crowned Homecoming Queen.

Saturday night topped Homecoming '73 off as students boogied to the music of Southern Comfort. The Homecoming Court was again honored and everyone danced Homecoming 73's Boogie with Big Red into the past.

Hop Hop Hop

A flicker, a flame, a light, a shining beacon on which the deserving juniors were ushered into the Beta Club realm before the entire student body. This was a solemn assembly in which the underclassmen were "tapped" with the shining white symbolic candle and were thus recognized for outstanding scholastic achievement.

The graveness soon gave way to the true test of a candidate's character as they were forced to hop, run, sing, beg, plead, and otherwise humiliate themselves to the delight of the "Mighty Senior Betas!" It was all taken in good stride, though, as the juniors started planning their revenge for next year, just a few months early!

"Tiny minute dots floating in a sea of more important things!" This must be the way the Cross Country Track and Girls' Basketball teams felt this year as they went practically unnoticed . . . AGAIN!

Even though they compiled some of the best records of any of the school teams, with the girls' basketball team winning the district championship, their pep rallies did not echo through the halls, great banners were not erected in their honor, and very few people even knew the members of the squads. So, they remained relatively quiet, and did not become perturbed when the roaring crowds did not appear in their stands or their names uttered from everyone's lips. They worked in the simple, but forceful ways of a winning team.

Junior Play

"The Dark of the Moon" was a shade to remember . . . the eerie superstitions, the dark nights, the obscure mountain talk, and the shrills and screams. The main characters were John, a witchboy, and his love, Barbara, a human. While John's struggles and conflicts resulted only in disappointment and sorrow, the cast's struggles and conflicts, which ended on November 16, resulted in a joyous success, as the capable cast, under the direction of Miss Teresa Keller, presented a portion of the talent of the class of '75.

Thanksgiving

A time of reflection on looking back upon our many blessings and praying that we shall be equally as lucky in the year to come. A time of inward peace, of inward joy and of magnificent hope. It is in our own cozy position, legs around us and see and have a truly warm flame of compassion in the cold age of opportunities for people who are so lucky as we who the students exemplify this spirit by giving food baskets and delivering them to people in need.

But this time of the year also calls for some fun mingled with the serious side of the holiday. And this was provided by the Thanksgiving Program presented by the band and chorus.

Still, however, this feeling does not get through to some and they still ask exactly what Thanksgiving is. Well, it is a time of quiet reflections, of noisy relatives, of church, and of good food.

It is a time to harvest one's year and to sow seeds for the next, but mostly it is a time to be thankful... for everything!

Senior Assembly

Sisters! But not related in the parental sense of the word but bonded by a deeper, purer feeling. One that grew almost instantly as the two young girls met and talked. One that came out of the bonds of loneliness, out of the knowledge of being a stranger in a country with people so alike, and yet so different. A feeling of togetherness as you give students a taste of your own homeland, and then try to relate to them all the wonderful things they have and yet are blinded to and take so much for granted.

And the entire school was with them all through the Senior Assembly.

They were there, right on stage, experiencing new and different things, and yet reexperiencing things time had hardened them to. The students questioned and listened all through the hour. And eventually were also caught up in the magical bonds of friendship that seemed to shroud the auditorium as Norwegian, Mexican, and American all came closer, and understood and CARED!

"THERE WILL BE SCHOOL IN SMYTH COUNTY TODAY..." the announcer squawks over the radio, and students immediately reply with a thousand of the most terrible curses known to man as they stumble up and make insanely vain attempts to finish the term paper or study for the test that they were sure they would not have today.

These same dazed people do, eventually, make it to the school that will be, however, and are momentarily "plastered" with one of the dirtiest, grimeiest, most horrible snowballs ever contrived. And as all the people around them go cackling off in hysterical laughter, they stand totally enthralled with the sensation of melted ooze flowing down their back and soaking into their new sweater!

After this, the Boys' or Girls' Rooms, as the case may be, awaits. They greet it with open arms, and it returns the greeting with a string of firecrackers blazing under their feet. This in turn causes sensations ranging from permanent deafness to multiple heart attacks. As the shattering noise tears through them leaving their ears ringing and nerves completely destroyed; all they seem to be able to hear is the laughter. A complete hatred of all humanity begins to overcome them.

Finally, however, lunch time arrives and they dash to the cafeteria only to be blanketed by a cloud of thick fog, and be engulfed by one of the most stomach rendering smells ever concocted. Eating lunch seems a total impossibility and so they sit, in total silence, with the awful stench of a smoke bomb and the uncomfortableness of a wet sweater and wonder why school was even attempted on a day like today!

And the Boys' Sr.-Y made sad and lonely hearts temporarily put aside some of their woes as they handed out presents at the state hospital.

On top of all of this, the actual holiday vacation was lengthened by two days officially, and even more because of the weather.

It was their turn, and they stood up proudly. And like so many small, fragile china doll puppets they swept across the stage with all the grace and charm their little bodies could muster. This was how the Little Miss Marion Pageant went, as the little girls of our town showed that they could do it too. So what if some fidgeted, and maybe didn't find their places exactly. Who cares if arms and legs didn't coincide for the most graceful step, and stage fright ran rampart through their miniature rank. At least it was their own performance, and they were simply beautiful, as they smiled and giggled and mystified, in their own unique, childlike and simple way, all the people who had the privilege of seeing them.

The Energy Crisis

Before anyone really knew it, the far away ENERGY CRISIS that everyone talked about, but nobody really expected, had STRUCK!

The first outward appearance that this creature had settled itself in our midst was the longer gas lines, school starting an hour later and the constant, almost magnetic attraction of the gas gauge toward the empty mark. Then the gradual severity of the situation began to seep through the cracks in our minds as car pools were smiled upon and gas stations closed completely or offered only a limited "pump it yourself" amount. The final blow came, however, when the ONE NAPKIN sign mysteriously appeared in the cafeteria and a bike rack was installed where brave souls could park their machines.

thoroughly to the point of near-perfection. "Impromptu" has a unique plot, which challenges the people in the audience to think about themselves and about life in general. It is provocative and stimulating, and is an excellent choice for competition.

The second place winner of the four plays was "The Mice Have Been Drinking Again," a light-hearted comedy about transcendental meditation and gurus. S.C.A. Elections

Spring has come! The earth is rejuvenating itself after the long winter. The flowers are growing again, the trees are blossoming and myriads of tiny new seeds sprout for the first time. Yet, the outdoors is not the only place that is growing anew, as spring marks the time for the S.C.A. Elections. The tiny seeds of leadership are planted in the candidates that are nominated by the entire student body for each office. These nominees then wage campaigns, just as the coming season wages campaigns against the cold winter, until they are ready to present themselves before the students. Finally, they are ready, and the true sprouts of ability and hard work nourished by the confidence of the students begins to blossom in the future S.C.A. Executive Councilmen.

Storm!

STORM! The great creature stalked in slowly, menacing, under a cloak of secrecy and darkness in April. The extreme silence foretold its coming, but no one noticed or even took heed as the people lay unconcerned in dreaming death-like slumber.

It still came, however, unmindful of the building and the lines, and the property; until it was in the midst of the civilization, and only then did the beast let go of its vengeful fury and power at four thirty in the morning. It flashed its tongue and sent zinging sparks flying across the unpending atmosphere; striking trees and burning buildings. It swung its destructive tail and the sheer terribleness of the wind from it tore the roof from the gym, overturned mobile homes, and sent uprooted vegetation soaring along before it fell on an automobile or structure. The gargantuan animal bellowed and rattled the windows and even the very core of man and earth, as the piercing amounts of water fell in torrents from the heavens, thus adding another side to the already grotesque picture. It would be talked about by every person, young or old the next day and for weeks to come. And would be known as The Storm.

Yet, when the damage was complete and the homes and businesses and lives of many were shattered and lay in ruins, the creature walked off, as quickly and easily as it had come. And Silence reigned supreme again.

Ghastly Play

"Ghastly" is a play about a group of teenagers who are haunted by the ghosts of their parents. The play is a dark comedy that explores the themes of family, death, and the supernatural. The cast of the play is made up of students from the M.S.H.S. and the play was directed by Mr. Condamine. The play was performed in the M.S.H.S. auditorium and was a great success. The cast and crew of the play were all very talented and the play was a great example of the quality of the M.S.H.S. drama program.

"We May Never Pass This Way Again" became not only the theme of the 1974 Prom, but a reality on the night of April 27. The Juniors were asked to be on committees to make favors, decorate, and clean up. Sharon Albert and Sue Matthews were appointed prom chairmen by Mrs. Linkous, the sponsor of the Junior Class. The committees worked for weeks preparing for the big night, meeting at people's houses, going shopping for favors and materials for the decorations. Tennis

After an entire year of planning and threats of being cancelled due to the energy crisis, the boys and girls tennis teams were finally brought into existence. This was an entirely new field of athletics at the school with no previous teams being organized. In fact the girls' team was new to the whole South-west District.

While these teams were completely new to the various programs, they did encounter some problems and difficulties; and the members of the teams had to ride through all the rough times that inevitably come with anything so young and untried. It caught the school so much by surprise that there were no courts and the generosity of people like Dr. George Walker, Dr. E. J. Richardson, Jr., and Dr. James Patterson and such organizations as the Blue Ridge Job Corps had to be counted on for practices and home matches.

Clean-up!

The wind blew cold and biting, the 70 degree temperatures never came, and the grey impending sky flickered some tiny, floating ice crystals at the earth. Yet, the students came, of all ages and from all the schools armed only with a warm coat and a plastic trash bag to pick up the remnants of our "prosperity" and our "advancing civilization." And the kids came not because they had to, or even because they truly wanted to, but because deep inside of their heart they felt that they should do this dirty task as a person, as a student, as an American. With each bottle or paper bag that was picked up, a tiny spark of HOPE flickered and then grew to warm the cold and tired bodies of the workers. Hope for a cleaner world, hope for the future and hope for themselves and the land and waters and sky that surrounded them.

Empty boxes and barrels didn't stay empty very long.

Warm Sunny Days

The trishy sun peeps sweetly through the heavy hooded trees, the temperature rises, and the warm rays filled clouds of winter give way to the rich deep seemingly infinite blue of a WARM SUNNY DAY.

Then the winter coats and protective heavy clothing is shed as the infant blades of grass sprout beneath bare feet, and then back on to all those who will answer to come and sink into its dream like softness, to gaze upon the clear doubt say should thrive the glowing smile of a summer's day and let themselves off the way, drive on... and bask. And this is exactly what the people do as they repose under trees, or in the full sunlight as they cycled as they participated in outdoor activities or as they simply rested and talked and thought and were thus totally overwhelmed by the exquisite, the... The unspeakable magic that goes along with a WARM SUNNY DAY.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Ulysses Cox moves it on down the field.

Under the new leadership of Coach Moe Weaver, the Scarlet Hurricane team battled their way to a 7-3 seasonal record. The spirit started off great as the guys shut out the favored Chilhowie Warriors, 21-0 in the first game! Things seemed to be going fine until District title hopes vanished to the Va. High Bearcats, 27-53. But the Hurricanes kept the enthusiasm and spirit alive by continuing their winning streak through the remaining season.

J. V. FOOTBALL

Although the J. V. Football team had a losing season, the boys adjusted very well under the new leadership of head coaches David Archer and Chip Meadows. They learned and developed strong football techniques and should prove to be a very exciting squad in the near future.

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM

The cross country team has been making a name for itself in 1980. In the past, the team has won the state championship in 1975 and 1976. This year's team is no exception. They have won the state championship in 1980. The team is made up of 15 members. They are all hardworking and dedicated athletes. They have been training hard all year long. They are proud to represent their school and their state. They will continue to work hard to win the state championship next year.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

LARRY'S LONE RANGERS: A fresh team! New coaches! And doubting supporters! Nobody really expected our Varsity Basketball team to do anything spectacular, but they came through with a great season. Even with a team that was young and inexperienced, out of which no member had ever started a varsity game, they fought and battled, and learned and grew in experience, and waited for the future years.

GOLF

Rhythm, poise, and balance are all things that a good golfer must have. Yet, he also must possess an ability to judge distance, an idea of his own power, and a knowledge of grasses and which way they grow. And all WSHS' fine golf team seemed to combine all these talents in just the right proportions as they began their season by winning five straight matches. This did not come without practicing all facets of the game, but the plentiful rewards that reaped were excellent payment for their time and energies.

The Student Cooperative Association is the largest club in the school because every student belongs to this service organization. Its purpose is to foster among the different facets of our school; students, faculty, and administration.

The S.C.A. began its 1973-74 year of service long before the first day of school. The president and vice-president spent part of their summer attending training sessions and the Orientation Committee and the "Swamp Fox" Committee put in long tedious hours of work so as to make this opening session a smoother and more pleasant experience for all the new students at MSHS. As the year rolled on this group consistently chose the outstanding members of our school for the Citizen of the Month Award, and the Charity Drive, held in late February, provided funds for the March of Dimes.

The S.C.A. also encouraged students to save gas by riding bikes to school and by parking them in the S.C.A. purchased bike rack. And even as the year drew to a close, the S.C.A. officers and senior homeroom teachers worked diligently on a proposal to exempt seniors from final exams. This exemption proposal was passed. Finally the year was concluded by giving credit where it was due, and to this end the Club of the Year was chosen and scholastic letters were awarded; all done by the link between the students and the faculty, the Student Cooperative Association.

The Executive Council of the S.C.A. helped to guide the student body through the year. The members are: Seated: Lyn Thompson—Vice President, Pat Hash—President.

SR. HI Y

The Boy's Senior Hi-Y is a Christian organization designed to promote fellowship among its members and render ser- vices to the community. This year the boys provided Thanks- giving baskets for the needy and gave a Christmas party to the patients at Southwestern State Hospital. They also parked cars during Big Red football games and were co- sponsor of the Christmas Dance.

JR. TRI HI Y

A rather lazy group of young ladies this was as they first planned their year at the district meeting at Patrick Henry High School and there attended the district conference at Abingdon to compose and exchange ideas about their money projects and services. After this was done they set out on the road again and traveled to the Model General Assembly.

When they returned home they set their plans into action and gave a needy family something to be thankful for as they prepared food baskets for them. They then won their way into the hearts of 60 needy children as they caused the Christmas spirit to ring a little louder with a special Christmas party for them.

Lastly, they turned their talents toward the school and made many more people's holiday seem better as they helped with the Christmas dance. And the good time continued as they sold lollipops to the constantly starving hoards at MS HS.

FORENSIC CLUB

As usual, the Forensics Club set new precedents this year. The area's First Little Miss Marion Contest set an example for the coming years. The Club's Flea Market, the first of its kind, earned money, and as the year continued and the activities came and went, the Club fulfilled its purpose, to encourage literary and dramatic activities at MSHS.

Contestants in the District Forensic Meet had their organization meeting in the M.S.H.S. Library.

At the beginning of this school year, Troupe 2493 of the International Thespian Society had six members. By November, three more talented students were chosen as candidates for membership, and another induction was planned.

The students in the Society are chosen on a basis of participation in and attendance of dramatic activities. To be chosen means that the candidate is recognized as talented.

Due to the lack of stage space, Carol Vaught learned her lines in the hall.

Frank Britton and Rhonda Leedy worked hard to prove that they were worthy of their induction.

Reaching out, exploring new realms of knowledge, grasping new facts and new thoughts and trying to bring them into focus in our world. This is what the Science Club did as it reorganized in the beginning of the year, and then went on to sponsor guest speakers such as Dr. Jones, an optometrist and Mr. Tarr, a metalurgist. The highlight of the year, however, was the Science Fair that gave many the opportunity to do their own experiments in a certain field.

CHESS CLUB

The excitement of a mock battle combined with intense concentration and planned strategy make up the game of chess. And this year, 17 members of the Chess Club tried to master all these qualities as they held a club tournament, and even arranged games between schools. They also purchased more chess sets so a greater number of interested people could learn and practice and try to achieve the qualities of a chess champion.

F.T.A.

1988 F.T.A. gives the teachers of tomorrow a sort of head start on their careers by introducing them into the many facets of the teaching profession. Even though their efforts were hampered by the lack of funds, they did manage to make Professor Smolling from Boston and Henry College speak on American education. And while the outside help was sparse, our own teachers Miss Powell and Mrs. Reed did speak on the many possibilities of special education.

In spite of all the setbacks, however, the organization did put their efforts to rest by selecting the Teacher of the Month, and even naming the Teacher of the Year.

Reba Fouse, Mrs. Overbey, Mrs. Pugh, and Linda Wood get ready to deliver Thanksgiving baskets to needy families.

The Future Business Leaders of America really do plan for the future; not only by taking classes and obtaining skills that will lead our corporations and business through our country, but also by helping in helping, human hand to help that need an extra kind word or perhaps a Christmas present when there have been none. They do this by taking a family during the Christmas and Thanksgiving holidays and by making this family's holidays happier. This group also sells trash bags to get money for the March of Dimes. Money-making projects also enter into their year and they take care of this by sponsoring a bake and a rummage sale. So, they learn, study, help and prepare in many ways, for the world around them.

F.H.A.

The Future Homemakers of America is an organization of students who have had or who are currently taking some type of home economics class. Since the greatest part of their programs and activities revolve around marriage and family living, they participate in things such as the summer planning workshops, the federation meeting, the Spring Rally, and the serving of refreshments at the Homecoming Dance. This group also sells Tom Watt Kits to raise money for the Mother-Daughter Banquet which is held in the spring at the Hungry Mother Grill and at which the awards ceremonies and the installation of new officers was held. And some money went toward the setting up of the Spring Formal Dance, which the FHA is Co-sponsor; with the Red Cross Club and the FFA.

If this is not enough, the members also have the opportunity to do more by earning their Junior Chapter and State FHA Degrees.

The cooperative Distributive Education program derives its name from the cooperative working arrangement between the school and distributive businesses of the community.

The D. E. program at Marion Senior High School starts on the tenth grade level with D. E. I. This is an explanatory year and students do not work. D. E. II (eleventh grade) and D. E. III (twelfth grade), the students work in distributive businesses in our community.

The primary objective of the D. E. program at the high school level is to prepare youth for full-time employment in the field of distribution. To achieve this objective, D. E. combines classroom instruction with on the job training.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUB

The back stage, behind-the-scenes people that labored long and hard in order to construct the sets for plays, plan the lights for the various civic programs that are held in the school's auditorium and arrange the sound for school assemblies. They can also be seen briefly during special presentations by the school choir as they arrange risers and such instruments and their correct positions. In short, they make themselves useful in quiet, unseen, unnoticed ways that benefit various organizations and the school.

LIBRARY CLUB

This club and its members have the responsibility of maintaining the school's information center and of helping the students and teachers alike that use it every day. This group of young people spends many hours helping the library to run smoothly and efficiently, and which they do more that one can see, such as manning the circulation desk or assisting people in their search for materials. They also perform many behind the scenes duties such as shelving books and keeping the library neat, clean and a nice place to go and study.

JR. RED CROSS

The Jr. Red Cross is one of the many service clubs that assist MSHS or outside organizations in some manner. This year this group helped the local Red Cross chapter by helping the vitally important blood mobile and by financing disaster chests that may, someday, help stricken people to regain their shattered lives. The Jr. Red Cross also served the community and themselves by selling fire extinguishers and first aid kits and by placing some of these items in the Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets of other clubs, in the driver education car and in Home Economics department. And while most of the money made from this project was used in the clubs other projects some went to help finance and co-sponsor the Spring Formal Dance.

HORTICULTURE CLUB

The minute plant cracks its seed-like case and pushes its delicate ringing leaves toward the life giving sun. The plant roots and is thus ready to be planted, and the fertilizer seeps slowly into the black earth and nourishes the young green thing contained in it. These are all sights that a person in the Horticulture Club might see, and possibly many more miracles of nature as plants and shrubs of all types and for all purposes are grown in the greenhouse. These people are not satisfied with just their own experiences, but bring in experts who teach them new methods and procedures that could help them, not only now, but also if they someday have their own greenhouse or garden. And lastly they have an open house to show people what can be accomplished with seeds, soil, and a lot of work.

BAND

Well practiced tunes floating through the halls, the auditorium and the gym at our school or down the streets of our town and one knows that the Scarlet Hill School Band is performing. This year, under the masterful direction of Mr. Roy Evans, music talent was trained with perfection as the band members, spirits high, the seasons and changes in tune and the honors common to certain members of the group were chosen for the All-Regional and the All-State Band.

Musical ability was often briefly put aside, however, as the visions of Orlando, Florida and Disney World prompted them to raise money so as to finance this well-deserved vacation experience.

Mr. Evans straightened his tie but the band played on.

MARIONETTE

The purpose of the school newspaper, the MARIONETTE, is to report school news and to present features, and editorials of interest to the students.

The staff sells ads, subscriptions, and sponsors sock-hops to finance the paper. Approximately 150 man-hours per issue are spent at the Smyth County News office by staff members with no professional help.

Twice each year, promising juniors attend the Virginia High School League publication workshop held at the University of Virginia. International Quill and Scroll is awarded each year to deserving senior staff members.

Thousands of pictures, masses of lay-outs, and hundreds of words of copy, all of which had to be transformed out of utter chaos and confusion into the some two-hundred pages that tell the entire story of the school year. This year, however, these matters were complicated even further by shortages and the ever present inflationary trend, which resulted in a price increase and a continuous stream of complaints from the students. In the end, though, when the papers had settled and the mad rush to meet deadlines had calmed, the annual was published, and despite screams of pain from the people, it was bought.

Classes

Seniors

At last! The Class of '74 was able to capture seniority at MHS. . .all the way from first in the lunch line to front row seats in the auditorium. Certainly the seniors can be proud of their numerous accomplishments, including the long awaited and hard fought "break-away" from the traditional red and blue class rings to the "selection of your choice." Also, several seniors set up a committee to explore the possibility of exam exemption.

A number of seniors must be credited for their outstanding achievements in sports - comprising a 7-3 seasonal football record and a Regional Championship from the Hurricane basketball "femmies."

Perhaps the most memorable instances of the year derived from Homecoming's - "Boogie With Big Red." Although it was the last for the seniors, it was definitely one of the best as the Hurricanes romped the Tazewell Bulldogs 28-6.

But the sports were not the only successful endeavors on the "senior scene," as the presentation of the senior play on March 29 went off as "smooth as silk."

The right to journey to Washington soon came to the seniors after they "threw their sales pitches" for products ranging from gigantic tootsie rolls to SNURFERS.

During this hectic period, many seniors were concerned with pre-college tests and multi-paged applications. But to ease some of the frustration, the seniors finally got to order their announcements; soon visions of graduation were clear, and the venture to each one's future became very real.

Yes, the years were long and hard for some, short and easy for others; but, nevertheless, the good times will always prevail, just as the class of '74 will always prevail as a resounding echo through the halls of MHS.

OUTSTANDING STUDENTS

Involved! That is the one word that describes this group of students. They spend hours outside of school in various civic organizations, are members of many of the clubs in school, and still maintain a 93 average in their academic studies. So, whether they are the Outstanding Teenagers, the Outstanding Students, or the best MSHS has to offer, they excel in all fields and are an asset to their school and their country.

Outstanding Teenagers of America are chosen on the basis of leadership in both community and school services, extra-curricular activities, scholarship or sports. One for each 100 students.

Pam Pennington, Mimi Graham, Jay McDonald, Terri Slemp, Brenda Bass.

Michael John McKenrick from Amherst Central High School, Buffalo, New York, joined our Senior class March 2, 1974. Mike, an honor student, plans to attend college. He played football for two years.

Juniors

Officers: Dorothy Weaver-Treasurer; Joyce Barrett-Reporter; Marc Sprinkle-President; Gregg Ferrell-Secretary; Mrs. Linkous-Sponsor; Alberto Iglesias-Vice President.

Fate seemed to be totally against the juniors this year as they got the rough end of almost everything that took place. "It all started," when they saw how small their class was and realized that winning any pep rallies was totally beyond any conceivable human possibility. Then the "Beta Club" rolled into the picture and thirty some members of the junior class were given to sheer lunacy as they adorned themselves in appropriate garb and hopped merrily on their way! Right into the hysterical roars of the rest of the school.

Their annual candy sales almost ended in a financial calamity and the prom hung on a precarious see-saw, pending the final gloomy outcome.

Even the promise of "DELIVERY BEFORE CHRISTMAS" for the class rings was blown apart, as the outrageous price tags, gold surcharges, and expensive options, even dimmed the bright occasion of placing one's order.

Oh, the rings came on time, but the poor juniors had to pay, pay, pay, to claim their prizes.

The year was not a total loss however, as College Career Night and the sensational, daring, and musical junior class play showed the rest of the school what the junior class is all about.

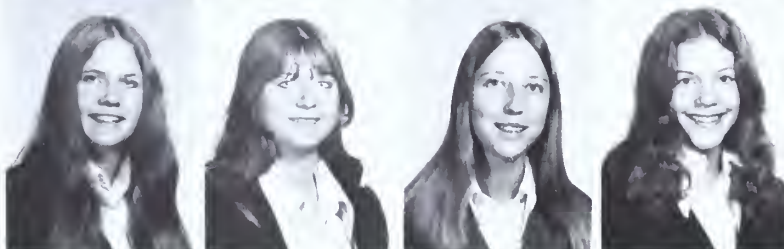

As for next year: Who Knows!

Sophomores

It was an action packed year for the sophomore class as again they displayed unitary leadership, as well as individual achievement. No longer were they considered the low "class" on the totem pole. In fact, the sophomores continuously exercised their accomplishments and acquisitions all the way from winning spirit sticks at pep rallies to captivating audiences with multifaceted skits and versatile talents.

It definitely looks like the sophomores have a very shiny future ahead of them and if they keep up the good work, next year will be paved with even "Greater Expectations."

Freshmen

The Freshmen came this year in full force, even if their ranks were a bit scared, and maybe just a little confused as room numbers and hallways all seemed to look just alike. They soon found themselves, however, like all the freshmen classes before them, and immediately stumbled into the brunt of the attack from the upperclassmen. It was much less severe than in past years, it was nevertheless ominously present and hung over the class like an impending storm, as they were laughed at, pointed at, joked about A LOT. They came through, like all the upperclassmen before them, and took their place at MSHS as they served as freshmen guides, became involved in school affairs, won pep rallies, and waited their turn.

ADMINISTRATION & FACULTY

The people who run our school, who put all the tiny pieces together and mold them into a class period, a day and eventually an entire year. This is our faculty and out of this group the teachers and administrators are the most obvious members. Now everyone knows what teachers do and that is TEACH. And whether it be from behind a desk, across a plant bench, or beside a student operating a lathe, they all impart knowledge in one way or another, in various degrees of effectiveness, as we struggle to try to retain this great wealth. We come into contact with teachers everyday and this is essentially the purpose for attending school. This fact is not definitely startling.

There are many more sides to the faculty, however, than just the instructors. The administrators, for example, have the great responsibility of keeping the operation flowing smoothly and efficiently, while the guidance department must soothe irate parents, dry students' eyes, and somehow un-complicate everything from scheduling to the seniors' college applications.

Still another vital link in the continuous chain of our school is the cooks that feed us and the custodians who are called upon to do everything nobody else can do, all the while spending long hours keeping the building and the grounds in good shape.

Then there are the secretaries who keep the non-typing teachers happy, while organizing all of the paper work that a school must carry on. And the librarians who lend a helping hand to everyone in the building by finding books, obtaining magazines, and keeping a quiet spot for all to go to escape the noises of the classrooms.

Lastly, even the teachers take on various duties, as they serve as coaches, club sponsors, chaperones, and almost anything else that needs an adult's presence and supervision.

In fact, the entire faculty is willing to give their time, themselves, and even their encouragement to the student body, so the school can function as one unit and can attain its highest goals as a learning institution.

Good Citizens

Nine months! Nine long months that seem to drag endlessly on, and yet, for some unknown reason, are gone and transformed into memories before they can be appreciated to their fullest. In every month, however, something happens! Maybe just a little personal thing, or possibly a special assembly. Yet it is something, and behind these special events there are special students, dedicated to their task, working very hard and very long hours to bring this spark of light and livelihood or happiness and enjoyment into the standard, grinding routine. So, it is for these people that the Citizen of the Month Award is given. Those who give extra to their cause, be it school, athletics, or some outside social organization, receive not only the pleasure of knowing that they were nominated by teachers and chosen by their fellow students, but also the total fulfillment that they had done something to be proud of and something to be noticed for.

October Citizens were Beth Bauman and Gary Perdue.

Lydia Swaha and Pat Hash were Citizens of the Month for September.

Who could be chosen as better Citizens of November than Mary Preston Scott and John David Crewley . . .

Yuletide Citizens were Brenda Bass and Alberto Iglesias.

Citizens of the Year—Brenda Bass and Jay McDonald.

February Citizens were Pam Pennington and W. C. Sheets.

The new year brought two new Citizens, Beverly Musser and Jay McDonald.

April Citizens—Terri Slep and Dennis Martin.

Our Citizens for March were Debbie Rousseau and Ulysses Cox.

Citizens of the Month for May were two deserving people, Mimi Graham and Kyle Rhodes.

Senior Awards

Salutatorian—Terri Slomp
Valedictorian—Pamela Pennington

Honorees of 1974, you have demonstrated what Sir Phillip Sidney said when he remarked, "Nothing is achieved before it be thoroughly attempted." The time has come to say . . .

We admire you! Yes, you are friendly, fair, and versatile. You have shown us that indeed, "no man is an island," but that you are willing to work with us, lead us, and hear us when we speak.

We commend you! We share your joy as you reap the benefits of recognition, financial rewards, and personal satisfaction from your honors.

We dare you! . . . To forge ahead in your adult life with worthy aims and ambitions which will be a credit to your country, community, school, family, and the class of 1974.

THE JEM CORPORATION

What the heck is a Snurfer? Just the most exciting winter toy ever invented, that's all! It's a cross between a snow-ski and a surfboard. Hence the name Snurfer. The Snurfer is new and it's the most successful winter toy since the sled!

Why is the Snurfer so popular? Well, it's a simple device and it's easy to learn to ride. A six year old child can carry a Snurfer to a gentle slope and after a few minutes of practice and a few spills, become an accomplished Snurfer. You don't need a gigantic hill and a foot of snow for thrills when you own a Snurfer. A long gentle grade and an inch of snow is sufficient for hours of fun and excitement for the owner of a JEM Snurfer. The Snurfer has a certain hip appeal, too. High school and college age youngsters are really into Snurfing. College Snurfers were responsible for organizing the first National Snurfing Championships. Some ski resorts even have special Snurfing slopes and organize Snurfing competitions. The JEM Corporation recognized the Snurfer's potential and purchased the manufacturing rights to Mr. Poppen's fantastic winter fun machine. We now offer three models of the Snurfer. The Standard, the Decca, and the super racing model, the Super Snurfer.

Snurfer (snurf'er), n. 1. A scientifically designed device for riding down snow covered slopes.
2. One who rides a Snurfer.

Snurf (snurf), v. To ride a Snurfer.
